DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over European patent 540,058 (Osawa) in view of Arai et al in further view of Murayama et al and Awano et al

Osawa discloses a method for manufacturing a magnetic recording medium comprising laminating a non-magnetic under-layer on a non-magnetic substrate (p 3, line 5-6), laminating a magnetic layer on said under-layer by forming an oxide layer on a surface, depositing a magnetic layer component comprising ferromagnetic grains and grain boundaries surrounding said grains (p 3, lines 6-13). There is subsequently laminated a protective film on said magnetic layer and a liquid lubricant layer on the protective film (p 5, lines 14-16).

Osawa does not disclose:

- exposure to an atmosphere of oxygen-containing gas;
- ferromagnetic grains and grain boundaries surrounding the grains.
- repeating magnetic layer on oxide layer multiple times;

Arai et al discloses exposure to an atmosphere of oxygen-containing gas during the manufacture of a magnetic recording medium (see abstract).

It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art to include exposure to an atmosphere of oxygen-containing gas during the manufacture of a magnetic recording medium because Arai et al teaches metal oxide films as common (col 1, lines 44-46).

Murayama et al discloses ferromagnetic grains and grain boundaries surrounding the grains (see abstract).

It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art to include ferromagnetic grains and grain boundaries surrounding the grains because Murayama et al teaches controlling grain size for desired characteristics (col 2, lines 23-28).

Awano et al discloses that magnetic layers may be repeated multiple times (col 6, lines 45-50).

It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art to include magnetic layers that may be repeated multiple times because Awano et al teaches advantages of alternating layer stack (col 5, lines 60-67; col 6, lines 1-6).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims of record have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Arguments regarding coercive force improvement not commensurate in scope with what is currently claimed.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
